Investigation of 9 Deaths
In Home of Chicago
Widow

GUARD WOMAN CLOSELY

For Fear She May Attempt Suicide—Expert Finds Traces of Arsenic.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Nine mysterious deaths at the home of Mrs. Louise Vermilya, East One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street, the last of which was the demise of Arthur Bissonette, a policeman of the Twenty-second street station, were investigated by the police, with the result that Mrs. Vermilya was arrested and will be held pending the result of further inquiry.

In addition to seven known deaths at the home of the South Side woman, Coroner Hoffman declared that there are two others, whose names he refuses to reveal. The known dead, in addition to the policeman: Fred Brinkamp, 60 years of age, first husband of Mrs. Vermilya, who died on a farm near Barrington, 18 years ago. The widow inherited $5,000 worth of property.

Charles Vermilya, second husband, 59 years old, who died at Maplewood two years ago, leaving $1000 in life insurance.

Frank Brinkamp, a son of the first marriage, 23 years old, who died a year ago, leaving his mother $1200.

Richard T. Smith, a conductor, who roomed at the Vermilya home.

Harry J. Vermilya, 31 years old, telegraph operator, died at 495 West Diversey boulevard, of heart failure superinduced by malarial fever. Death occurred Sept. 20, a few days after he had quarreled with his step-mother over the sale of a house at Crystal Lake, Ill.

Lillian Brinkamp, 26 years old, granddaughter of Fred Brinkamp, died Jan. 21, 1906, at 2916 Groveland avenue, of acute nephritis.

Cora Brinkamp, aged 8, daughter died at Barrington.

Florence Brinkamp, aged 4 1/2 years, daughter, died at Barrington.

Mrs. Vermilya was reported to be dangerously ill last night and is being closely guarded, as physicians believe she has taken poison.

Mrs. Vermilya, when arrested, was informed that Prof. Walter Hayes, Rush Medical College expert, who is examining the organs, has found traces of arsenic and she asked: "Well, what is arsenic, anyhow?" "They may go as far as they like," said the woman in answer to questions, "for I have nothing to fear. I have simply been unfortunate in having people dying around me."

JEALOUS LOVER KILLS FIANCEE

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 1.—While happy crowds of Halloween revelers in fancy costumes were whirling about the floor to dance music at midnight last night, Charles McGalliard, aged 23, shot to death his fiancée, Miss Alta Haywood, 20. He took his arm from about the girl long enough in the dance to fire at her with a revolver. She sank to the floor and died immediately, with a bullet through her heart. Young McGalliard then tried to kill himself, but was overpowered. In a written confession to the police today he stated that jealousy was the cause of his act.

WILL ENDEAVOR TO PROVE GAS AND NOT DYNAMITE CAUSED THE EXPLOSION

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 1.—That the defense in the McNamara case will endeavor to prove a great portion of its contention that gas and not dynamite destroyed the Times building by the very forces that are behind the prosecution were made certain today by the introduction by Attorney Darrow of the first copy of the Times issued on the morning following the disaster. He got it before the court when questioning Talisman Preston against whom he later lodged a challenge for bias. Darrow had Preston identify a copy of the Times which bears in deep black type the statement "Unionist Bombs Wrecked Times." It is now known that Darrow expects to show that the Times for weeks after the explosion openly declared that the building was destroyed by dynamite and then, when the insurance companies refused to settle on the grounds that an explosion and not fire wrecked the building the owners immediately changed their tactics and asserted that the explosion was only a small affair doing only $5,000 damage.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR WETS

Dry Desert of Wyandot
Captured by the Liberal
Forces at Option
Election

HAD VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

Newspaper Advertising Freely
Used by Both Sides—Marion Voting Today.

Upper Sandusky, Nov. 1.—Wyandot county, which three years ago went dry by 52, when 22 saloons were voted out, yesterday reversed its verdict on county local option, and gave the wets a majority of 205. The election came at the close of a very strenuous campaign, of three weeks. This city, which went wet in 1908 by a majority of 383, today increased that majority to 423. Sycamore, Nevada and McCutcheonville are dry under the Beal law, but the wets expect to capture these places soon under another Beal election.

Returns from the first precincts indicated a wet majority of 500 in the county, but the country districts did not maintain their expected ratio of gains for the wets. In fact, some of them showed dry gains.

The campaign was conducted with marked vigor, both drys and wets importing speakers. Fully 100 meetings were held by the drys. One of their speakers was Judge A. Z. Blair of Adams county fame. Only three meetings were held by the wets, two in this city and a third in Carey. C. Homer Durand, head of the Personal Liberty League, delivered the principal address for the wets. The wet campaign was conducted by the Wyandot County Business Men's League. Newspaper advertising was used liberally.

The campaign has been free from bitterness. The wets were jubilant last night, but there was no demonstration.

Wyandot is the fifth county to vote in an election brought by the wets to recapture dry counties. Four of these have gone wet, and Meigs went dry, but by a greatly reduced majority.

MAKING HARD FIGHT IN MARION COUNTY

Marion, Nov. 1.—Marion and Marion county are in a turmoil today and both drys and wets are engaged in a final wild scramble for votes. Final arguments were made in page advertisements in local papers last night. Rev. John S. Rutledge of Cleveland addressed the dry mass meeting at the tent, while Rev. T. B. Wadleigh of Chicago addressed a wet meeting at the skating rink. Announcement that Wyandot county went wet was the signal for a big wet demonstration in this city.

The drys turned all their guns on the saloon, the saloon keeper and liquor. The wets advocated the open saloon and regulation as better than the speakeasy and bootleggers. Each side has used a vast amount of statistics in support of its claims. The campaign has been hard fought, but entirely devoid of any trouble, and none is anticipated today at the polls.

Wets claim the county by from 500 to 800, but admit that the vote may be closer. Drys admit that they will not repeat the former majority of 1253, gained Sept. 28, 1908, but say they will win by several hundred.

CLAIM CHILDREN DID NOT WRITE LETTERS

East Liverpool, Nov. 1.—Published letters on "Why Saloons Should Be Kept Out of East Liverpool," and purporting to have been written by children for a prize of five dollars, led to the filing of an affidavit by the wets that one of the letters, the authorship of which was credited to a little girl, was, in fact, written by an older person.

The drys expect Wayne B. Wheeler, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, to finish the campaign tonight. The wets are making a whirlwind campaign of oratory and newspaper work.

DARING BANDITS ROB AN EXPRESS TRAIN NEAR MEMPHIS

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 1.—With a daring seldom equalled two masked men held up and robbed the mail express on the Rock Island railroad at Arkansas Bridge Junction, just across the Mississippi river from here early today.

With the use of a red flag the robbers stopped the train as it approached the bridge and while one of the robbers covered the mail clerk with a gun the other rifled the registered mail. Matching the clerks in front of them the robbers then made their way to the express car where they tied the expressman and blew the safe with a charge of nitro-glycerine. When the bandits had fled several of the clerks secured revolvers and gave chase, but they had delayed too long.

After successfully gaining entrance to an express car, the robbers sought to blow the safe, which was known to contain nearly half a million dollars. The robbers, however, by mistake blew a smaller safe which contained nothing, and then fled without tampering with the strong box, which contained a fortune.

Next week for Chicago, where they will formally sign a contract as aviators with the Chicago Aeroplane company, and on December 1th, will leave for southern points, where they will give a series of exhibition flights during the winter in a 50-horse power biplane.

These young men are thoroughly acquainted with the mechanism of the various makes of aeroplanes, and will enter the field as aviators with the most thorough technical knowledge and skill.

PREMIER OF CHINA TO RULE

Emperor Surrenders All Power by Edict
Issued Monday

ANNOUNCES HIS POLICY

Will Cease Hostilities Against the Rebels—Wants Permanent
Peace Established.

Peking, Nov. 1.—Yuan Shi Kai was appointed premier of China today. Other cabinet appointments will be subject to his approval. The emperor having practically surrendered all power by his edict of Monday, Yuan becomes virtually ruler of the country.

Yuan Shi Kai followed up the announcement of his appointment as premier with a brief statement of the policy he intends to pursue.

His first act, he says, will be to cease hostilities against the rebels immediately. Then he will open negotiations with General Li Yuan Hing, the revolutionist commander, who recently proclaimed himself the president of China, with a view to re-establishing permanent peace.

Practically Yuan's plan contemplates a union between the government and the rebels. Whether the rebels will accept his overtures, however, is an open question. They have shown no signs yet of abandoning the revolution on the strength of the emperor's promises, and Yuan is known to be out of favor with them for having accepted office.

News today that imperialist soldiers are plundering the country and butchering the peasants north of Hankow is taken here to mean that the fighting in Hankow itself is over, the rebels were victorious and that the imperialists are scattered and fleeing. There is no news direct from Hankow, all wires still being down and the railroad out of commission. The situation here has grown hourly more threatening.

Now that the whole of the northern Chinese troops have joined the army league and refused service unless the league demands are complied with, the throne is completely without protection, except for the Manchuk soldiers, which are so far outnumbered by the Chinese that they could not long resist a concerted attack.

To complicate matters further the army league's demands conflict with those of the rebels, so that in case the former is satisfied the latter's enemy will only be intensified. Revolutionists in Peking boldly demanded today the mustering out of even the Manchuk troops. "To do so would leave the emperor without even a palace guard."

Yuan Shi Kai has just telegraphed from the south that he intends negotiating with the rebels, but is evidently having trouble to get in touch with the leaders. The revolutionists strongly disapprove of the Manchuk government and he is unlikely to find them friendly toward himself.

The American residents in Peking and their countrymen who have sought refuge here from neighboring cities are holding a meeting at the legation today to consider measures for their protection.

Shanghai, Nov. 1.—Rear Admiral Joseph B. Murrell of the U. S. navy arrived here today and at once ordered 850 American marines to Hankow to protect foreign interests there. The marines started for the scene of the trouble at once.

A GREAT PROBLEM

By KATHLEEN I. MCURDY

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Three hundred years ago timepieces were rare. There were town clocks in some European cities, but the watch had not yet been developed. Frau Stoekel, living in the square of Stuttgart, where she could see the tower clock by stepping to her door, had a clock of her own and used to set it every day by the clock in the tower.

Now, at this time the minds of men did not work as quickly or as shrewdly as they do now. The masses were still superstitious, referring every natural event to a supernatural cause. The people of Stuttgart were as stupid as any, and it took them as long to get a proposition through their heads as would be required to bore a hole through a millstone with a gimlet.

A murder was committed among them—at least was supposed to have been committed, for the body of the murdered man could not be found. Franz Gobel, a peddler, had stopped all night at the house of John Mertz, and in the morning Mertz had disappeared. Gobel was caught leaving the house with some money Mertz had left behind him. Gobel pleaded guilty to taking the money, but denied having in any way injured Mertz. Nevertheless he was arrested and tried before a jury, such system of trial having recently come into use in Stuttgart. The fact that Mertz had disappeared and Gobel was going away with his money was quite enough to prove to the Stuttgartians of that day that Gobel had killed Mertz. They convicted him in short order, and he was sentenced to be hanged.

In Stuttgart was a man named Ventnor, who possessed a curious combination of knowledge. He knew quite as much law as the attorney of that period—which was nothing at all—and he knew something of mathematics and astronomy. Gobel sent for him and declared on a crucifix that he had not murdered Mertz, but had scared him away in the middle of the night by playing ghost in order that he might secure his money. The condemned man begged Ventnor to save him.

Ventnor was as ingenious as the people of Stuttgart were stupid. He took what money the prisoner had and, going to the keeper of the clock, bribed him to let him (Ventnor) into the tower whenever he wished to go there.

The next day at noon, when Frau Stoekel went to her door to look at the town clock in order to set her own, she found that the clock had gained twenty minutes. A gain or loss of five or ten minutes would not have surprised her, but twenty minutes quite took her breath away. However, she and every one in Stuttgart had perfect confidence in the town clock, and she set her own timepiece back. The next day, finding that it had gained another twenty minutes, she set it back again and moved the regulator to cause it to go slower. Nevertheless on the third day her clock had gained an hour.

Frau Stoekel, convinced that her clock was out of order, tried to get some one to fix it. Several of the best mechanics tried, but the more they tinkered with it the faster it ran. Notwithstanding the work done on it, in a month it had gained in all twenty-four hours.

Gobel was to be executed just one month from the date of the sentence. The day before the intended hanging Ventnor went before the judge who had sentenced his client and declared that the execution would be illegal. When asked why he asserted and brought two witnesses to prove that he had turned the town clock back at various times enough to effect the loss of a day. Therefore the date appointed for the hanging would be the day after that named in the sentence.

The judge was puzzled. Taking a quill pen, he began to make figures. He figured awhile, when a fellow townsman came in, and, having heard the problem as to whether the setting back of the clock had lost the town a day, he, too, began to figure. One by one the citizens came in till the room was full of persons driving quill pens with a view to working out the problem. At midnight, since there was no result, the judge issued a stay for the hanging, and the next day the figuring went on.

At the end of a week the judge sent to the university at Heidelberg for a professor of mathematics and astronomy to come to Stuttgart and tell the Stuttgartians whether Gobel if hanged as sentenced would have been illegally executed—in other words, whether by the setting back of the clock a day had been lost.

The professor came and told the burghers that a day had not been lost, but when he attempted to prove his words he found his listeners too thick headed to understand him.

The Stuttgartians after the professor's departure began to wrangle among themselves, some believing what he had told them, others steadfast in their opinion that a day had been lost. But all agreed that a new day should be fixed for the hanging and a guard meanwhile placed around the clock tower. From opinions they came to blows, and a fight was on when who should come sauntering along, looking like a frightened cur, but the murdered man! He said that the ghost of his grandfather had told him to go away and stay away for a month.

The people crossed themselves and set Gobel at liberty.

Ever Take the Pledge?

It was formerly customary for the habitual drinker to take the pledge regularly, sometimes once a year, and sometimes in every fit of remorse that followed his debauches, and then—Break it.

But now it is gradually dawning on the world that pledges do not stop drunkenness. The nervous system of the habitual drinker is diseased and he must have treatment that will cure his condition. If Orline does not benefit after a trial, your money will be refunded.

ORLINE costs but $1 a box. Call at our store and get a free booklet. We'll gladly tell you all about this meritorious remedy for the liquor habit. Frank D. Hall, 10 North Side Square.

Ride on a Rhinoceros.

Quentin Grogan, the big game hunter who acted as guide for Colonel Roosevelt in Uganda, has just returned from a trip to the Congo that was successful in adventure.

Grogan went out in search of a pair of live white rhinos, no specimen of which is in captivity. At Regaf he got in touch with a youngster, but missed getting a rope about its leg.

In a mad endeavor to capture the brute Grogan hung himself at it, grabbed it by the ears and mounted its back. He is probably the only man who has ever ridden a live white rhino. The beast screamed with terror and dashed at a wonderful gallop across country.

Frightened though the rhino was, it didn't forget its native sense and made straight for a clump of thorn bushes, into which it dashed. Grogan was literally torn off its back. His face and body were lacerated and his feelings also at losing the object of his trip. Now he is in a more philosophic mood and says:

"Never mind; I had a fine ride."

Fought Sharks With Knife.

After five hours in the sea facing death from sharks and drowning, Andy Anderson, a Danish fireman from the British steamship Melton, was picked up 200 miles off St. Vincent in the West Indies.

Anderson fell overboard from his vessel at 4 o'clock in the morning without being seen. Determined to make a desperate fight, he stripped off his clothing, but saved his knife. He soon found that sharks were after him and he had to fight for his life.

Knifing the fish, Anderson, an expert swimmer, managed to keep afloat until 9 a. m., when the lookout on the rescuing steamer, which had run about forty miles off its course, sighted the man in the sea. He was picked up and taken aboard and was found to be literally scarred from head to foot with wounds inflicted by the fish. He lost consciousness when taken from the water.

At one time, he said, he fought with a large shark for twenty minutes that seemed five hours and stabbed the man eater twenty times before the shark gave up the fight.

This Man Lifted a Ton.

Richard Joy, who died May 18, 1742 at the age of sixty-seven and is buried in St. Peter's churchyard, Isle of Thanet, Kent, England, was known throughout Europe as the "Kentish Hercules," or the "second Samson." When but a youth of seventeen years he was invited to London by the king to give an exhibition in remarkable feats of strength. Among the feats of breaking with his hands and feet a rope with a tensile strength of thirty-five hundredweight and the lifting of 2,200 pounds. The following is a copy of his epitaph:

Herculean hero, famed for strength, At last lies here, his breadth and length. See how the mighty man is fallen! To death the strong and weak are all one. The same judgment doth befall Goliath great and David small.

An Insult.

"Have you ever written on an empty stomach?" asked the mere man. "Sir!" exclaimed the literary person. "I am a poet, not a tattoo artist!"

When the tree is fallen every one goeth to it with his hatchet.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Caring For the Bedridden.
When one is old and has only what nursing the household can provide the lot of the bedridden is attended with dangers. Serious results are sure to follow if a patient, particularly an old person, is allowed to lie for hours
at a time, day in and day out in the same position. The skin covering the bony points on which the weight falls becomes worn, irritated, inflamed and then breaks, forming bedsores, which, besides being acutely painful, are difficult to cure. Lying constantly in one attitude, the parts of the lungs which are lowest become filled with a fluid which escapes from the blood vessels, due to the weakened state of the circulatory system. If the patient lies for hours without change of posture this fluid will, by the action of gravity, collect in the lowermost portions of the lungs.
By filling up the air chambers in these parts the portion of the lungs remaining available for breathing purposes becomes gradually reduced. The pneumonias which so often end the sufferings of bedridden patients
usually begin in this waterlogged state of the lungs. If the patient is moved into a different position every two or three hours (he can usually be made equally comfortable by the plentiful use of pillows) the fluids which have escaped into the lungs will not have time to collect sufficiently in one place to throw out of action any important amount of lung tissue.

Kind words for candidate F. M.
Swartz come to him and his friends,
even from distant cities. Captain John Doyle has received a letter from his old friend J. G. Frazer, who is now a resident of Brooklyn, N. Y., in which he writes:

"John, I read in one of our papers
about that good Democrat, Francis Marion Swartz, running for Newark's next mayor. I have heard my father speak of him many times, and the voters of Newark will make no mistake in supporting Mr. Swartz. I would like to be there next month and help elect him. May the Lord bless him and keep him well. Don't forget to get out early and work hard for Mayor Swartz."

WHAT THE ELECTION
OF THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET STANDS FOR

Democrats who will vote at next Tuesday's election should from now on and at all times be able to use a discriminating judgment, if approached with any promises of what may be expected should any particular candidate on the opposite ticket be elected. The following is true in regard to every candidate on the Democratic ticket. F. M. Swartz stands for a bigger and better city, governed in accordance with honesty, reason and common sense, and the other candidates on the ticket are in hearty accord with his proposed policy, and when elected will give him the support and co-operation that will hold up his hands in the discharge of the duties of the office.

If the entire Democratic ticket is elected, as it should be, the next administration will be characterized by harmony and unified effort toward the ends which Mr. Swartz has determined to accomplish when elected.

IMPORTANT TO ELECT DEMOCRAT
TO SCHOOL BOARD

It is conceded that Seth W. Haight will be elected to the Board of Education by probably the largest majority of any candidate on the city
ticket, presented by either party.
There are several reasons for this.
First, Mr. Haight has served as a member of this body before, his tenure
of office extending over several years,
during which he was known as one of the best men who ever sat in the councils of the board. Secondly, his candidacy is unique in one way, as the Democrats saw fit to nominate only one candidate for this office, whereas three are to be elected. This insures him many votes from the Republicans who may not desire to support their ticket as it stands. These Republicans who will scratch any one of the candidates on their ticket will vote for Mr. Haight, realizing that he is not controlled by the American Book company, nor swayed in his adherence to what he considers to be the best interest of the Newark schools by any clique of teachers who may consider that they have more power
and authority than the board itself.
Another important consideration, is the fact that a clerk of the new board will be selected, to take the place of Mr. D. M. Keller. This office is the only one that pays a salary and its importance is vital to the successful business management of the schools. Mr. Haight will have a voice in this selection, and will be in a position to see to it that the best man is chosen, or give the reason why he was not.

According to a poll of one precinct
in Newark which was completed Tuesday, of those who had no hesitation in giving their preference for Mayor Swartz, 21 for Higbee, while the Socialist candidate had several and portion did not express their views.

HARD LUCK.

When I'm inclined to weep and wail because my luck seems kind of stale, I always think of William Wax, who lives down by the railway tracks. He lost both legs some years ago, by being frozen in the snow, but no one ever heard him whine or curse his fortune or repine. With cheery smiles he went his way, upon his crutches, day by day. And later, when he lost both arms, his brave heart seemed all coward alarms; we were lost from the sawmill door, all stunned and splattered with his gore, and still he cried: "Li-ting-a-lung! I cannot dance, but I can sing!" He kept on singing in his shack, and then one day he broke his back. We put him in a plaster cast, and thought he'd surely wait at last, but still he cried, in tones of joy: "I'm still your little sunshine boy!" And later on this human wreck fell from his house and broke his neck; and then a gun blew off his head and still he wore a smile and said: "Such trifles do not worry me, and I am always full of glee!" So when grim war was upon us, I always think of William Wax, to whom no ill could sorrow bring, and then I dance and whoop and sing.

be clothed cannot be doubted by any one who knows F. M.
Swartz and his characteristic fairness and adherence to the principles which he has adopted.

There has been no whisper that Mr.
Swartz has attempted to placate warring factions in his own party by promises to each, antipodal in their nature and substance; neither has he been censured for attempting to secure votes outside of his own party
by and resort to flattery, cajolery,
falsehood or subterfuge.

Mr. Swartz is broad-minded enough to know that a government suited to a town or village, cannot be administered in a city the size of Newark with any degree of success. He is also conscious that in the execution of all laws those having this duty to perform should avoid a bigoted adherence to the "letter of the law which killeth," and be governed by the "spirit of the law, which maketh alive."

Mr. Swartz cannot possibly see every voter personally but those whom he has seen, are perfectly satisfied he will carry with him into the office of Mayor, and those whom he has not seen he wishes to assure that his policy will be one that has only one purpose, the advancement of every essential for Greater Newark.

During his campaign for election to the mayoralty, Marion Swartz has at no time indulged in promiscuous pre-election promises of appointments, in-case he is elected, as a reward for the support of any person to any office within the appointive power of the mayor. When he is elected he will have absolutely free rein to appoint to any office the man he considers best equipped to fill it, and this equipment will be his fitness, to perform the duties of the office.

Hours for Child's Study and Meals

By WELLS ANDREWS, M. D.

Constant nibbling of food between meals should be forbidden. It destroys the appetite, increases the saliva and interferes with stomach digestion.

Children should never be hurried off to school in the morning with an insufficient and rapidly eaten breakfast. Their appetites are often poor at this hour from the effects of an ill-ventilated sleeping apartment, and if they are kept at school for several hours without luncheon they are very ill prepared for mental work.

The greater number of children have a natural craving for sweets.
The important role of sugars in furnishing energy in active childhood necessitates the consumption of a larger proportion of sugar than is required by adults. The craving of children for confections, candy and the like furnishes a true indication of the actual requirements of nature, and it must be admitted that a certain amount of wholesome candy, like plain molasses candy, not only does most children no harm but may serve them as an excellent food.

Simple forms of well-cooked bread and custard puddings should be furnished as dessert occasionally.

Tea and coffee should be withheld. They interfere with digestion and make the child nervous.

Too much water should not be allowed with meals, and what is given should not be iced.

LESSON OF THE PRESENT COUNTY OPTION ELECTIONS

Five counties in the state have held elections under the Rose law and three more, in the throes of the "wet" and "dry" agitation, are to vote this week. The five counties that voted all went "dry" three years ago.
Four of them have reversed their decisions at that time and have given strong "wet" majorities, while the fifth county remains in the "dry" column, so called, by a greatly reduced majority.

In all the counties that have voted and the three in which campaigns are on to vote this week, the agitation has been characterized by much greater bitterness and ill feeling than it was three years ago.

Thoughtful, conservative people have deplored this agitation from the beginning and they have reason to deprecate it now more than ever, since the experience that the three years have afforded proves to be more of an unsettlement than otherwise of the question of the liquor traffic.

Every intelligent person can size up the results attained and be his own judge of what has been accomplished.

Up to date County Option in this great progressive,
intelligent commonwealth, with its varied, prosperous industries and commercial interests, has thrust upon the people an agitation of the liquor traffic that is more widespread and intense than in all the other great states
of the Union combined.

This deplorable condition has brought about to a large extent the desire on the part of thinking people for a settlement of the vexed question by the coming constitutional convention in order that something more stable, permanent and satisfactory may be substituted
for the present agitation and unsettled state of affairs.

The campaigns in the counties now holding elections under the Rose law are certainly teaching the lesson.

Don't imagine that wishing the election of F. M. Swartz will accomplish that fact. Every Democrat must work and vote for this success. While there seems to be no doubt about the election of the entire Democratic ticket,
it must be remembered that the opposition are leaving no stone unturned to secure the election of its whole ticket.

THE DIEHL VERDICT.

Editor Advocate: Your paper published October 30 has a piece in from Washington, D. C. Herald, giving the juryman credit for their verdict
in the Walter Diehl case, but here is one thing that is never mentioned. On the afternoon of July 8, 1910, a mob of citizens began to gather in front of the Licking county jail and not a soul interfered with them. A little later this same mob began to batter down the jail doors and still they were not interfered by an officer or any one. Funny, isn't it? A little later they dragged a man from the jail to the public square and lynched him, and still not an officer interrupted, the mob. Uncle Sam's soldiers at Columbus, O., were in readiness to come to this city at a moment's warning to stop the lynching. Has any one ever given an excuse for not calling them? No. It's kept awful quiet for some reason. When it comes to paying a penalty the man lower down is the man that has to face the music. But in the next world we'll all look alike.

TWIN ILLS

Stomach Trouble and Bad Health—
How to Escape Them.

Stomach trouble and run down system go together, usually. If you can get the system built up, the stomach symptoms disappear.

W. H. McAnis, Birmingham, Ala., says: "I had suffered from stomach trouble for years but found nothing that would give more than temporary relief. My druggist said Vinol was the best thing for me to use. It gave me immediate relief, improved my appetite and digestion and now I feel that I am all through with my stomach trouble."

We firmly believe that all forms of stomach trouble due to impaired
general health can be permanently
cured by the use of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil. Its remarkable tonic and strengthening effects are exactly what the weakened stomach needs.
We guarantee that Vinol will do all that we claim for it and give back your money if it doesn't. Frank D.

Regular Hours for Child's Study and Meals

Hours for children's study and for meals should be regulated. Sufficient time should be allowed before each meal to permit children to wash and prepare themselves comfortably, without going to the table excited by hurry. And they should be required to remain at the table throughout a fixed time, never being allowed to swallow their food hastily in order to complete an unfinished task or game. An interval of half an hour or more should intervene after meals for recreation, in order that digestion may be well under way before any mental exertion is required.

all of the 34 counties of the Colum-

in connection with the Columbus
eight-day campaign, Monday evening,
Nov. 13, the campaign and convention will open with a dinner in Me-

be present, and make an address.
During the evening the other cam-

the campaign of Kansas City and will be heard. The list includes John Alexander, head of the Boy Scout movement; J. A. Whitmore of New expert on missions. All of these men will be speakers in the convention and leaders of the training institutes

that are a part of the campaign plan.
Delegates to the "Men and Religion Forward Movement" convention will be welcome from Church Brother-hoods, Sunday School Bible Classes of men or older boys, individual churches, Young Men's Christian Associations or Men's Clubs or Mission organizations. Co-operating move-been organized in Newark, Mt. Gilead, Lancaster, Athens, Cambridge Cal-

Delaware, Circleville, Portsmouth,
Zanesville, McConnellsville, McArthur, Pomeroy, Marietta, Mt. Vernon, New Lexington, New Philadelphia, Marion
and Crestline. These organizations will carry "the movement" into their entire counties.

Fifteen hundred plates will be laid for the convention dinner of Monday evening and it is likely that every one will be occupied and a demand for more.

The heart of this new M. and R.
movement is the idea of training men
and boys for service on all the lines of the plan. Boys' Work, Bible Study, Social Service, Missions and Evangelism, Institutes for instruction
in methods and principles for work in all five lines will furnish the churches a corps of trained and earnest workers that will make their work more effective than ever. Nov.
13 to 20 is the date of the eight-day
campaign in Columbus.

the present day life of men and boys

Church work and the finest of plans for tying to the individual Church

One of the enjoyable affairs of the week was a masquerade surprise that was tendered Miss Helen Allen at her home in Buena Vista street on Friday evening by the members of her class. During the absence of Miss Helen during the afternoon, the house was decorated in autumn leaves, jack-o'-lanterns, pumpkin faces, etc., and when she returned home she had no sooner entered the hall when the door bell rang and when she answered it she was surrounded by twenty-three classmates, dressed in all manner and style.

All kind of Hallowe'en games were played and at 10 o'clock when all were seated in the dining room where a sumptuous supper was to be served, much merriment was enjoyed in lifting the masks.

FEATHERS IN LAYERS THE FAD NOW.

Varied and wonderful are the ways of using ostrich plumes which milliners have discovered. Handsome feather's are split up into thin fronds for one thing, and made to look like long, feathery quills. A number of these split ostrich feathers have been used on this new hat, which has the rolled back and indented brim now in favor. The feathers shade from a very pale gray to a deep sage shade at the back of the hat. The crown is completely covered with layers of the plumage, but the brim is faced with very dark stone gray velvet.

Recipes for Nov. 1, 1911.
Deviled Kidneys—Remove the fat from four veal kidneys then, with a very sharp knife, cut the outer portion from each lobe, rejecting the central purplish or dark colored core. In doing this have the good portion in very thin chips. Melt one tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan; add the prepared kidneys, toss and stir over a quick fire for five minutes. Add a half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and the merest pinch of grated nutmeg. Skim the kidneys from the pan and put in a hot dish. To the butter in the pan add one tablespoonful of flour and brown, then add one cupful of good beef stock, one tablespoonful of Worcestershire, a dash of cayenne and a few drops of caramel coloring. When boiling take from the fire and add two tablespoonfuls of sherry and strain over the kidneys.

Cheese Strips—Cut stale bread in thin slices, then in narrow strips, arrange on a wire broiler or toaster and toast golden brown; as they are apt to drop out in turning the utensil, it will often be found best to place the toaster on top of the range without uncovering the fire, lay the bread strips on it and turn them with a fork as they color. While hot spread with soft butter, sprinkle freely with grated cheese, dust very lightly with paprika, spread on a flat pan and stand in a hot oven until the cheese melts and forms a crust over the toast. They are best when served hot, but often appear cold with the salad.

Make Your Cut Glass Sparkle

Soap leaves a greasy film on glass which is hard to remove; the following method of washing will, however, make glass crystal clear:

Take a wooden tub, or pad the metal sink with soiled glass linen towels or any soft piece of cotton. Wash the glass in warm suds, made by dissolving a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder in a pan of hot water; use a soft brush to clean surface, then rinse in water of the same temperature. After the glass has been carefully dried on glass linen, use a camel's hair brush to polish the cut surface.

Beginning Wednesday morning, November 1st Clouse and Schaeveker will make a general reduction on all their trimmed and untrimmed hats, willow plumes, French ostrich plumes and other millinery. There are about four hundred trimmed hats for this sale and includes all high grade pattern hats, Philip's tailored hats and Madame Marie hats, and many exclusive hats from our work room.

This will be a great opportunity to secure a beautiful hat for little money. Clouse and Schaeveker, 42 Hudson Ave. 31-2t

HEART AND HOME TALKS

BY BARBARA BOYD

The Home Girl and Her Dangers.

IT is supposed that the girl who stays at home has few dangers, that these lie in wait for the girl who goes out into the world to earn her living. But certain dangers do await the home girl, and she must be on her guard against these, quite as much as must the business girl those of another kind.

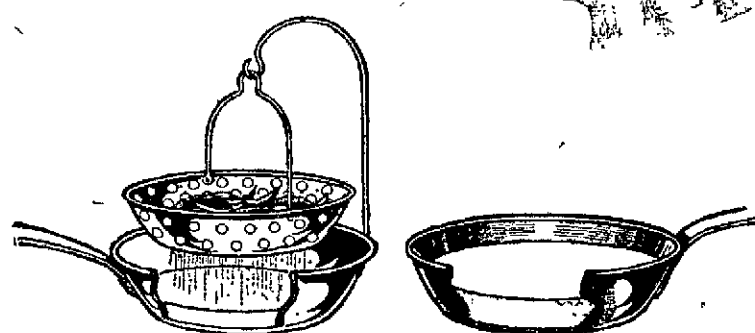

One of the chief dangers that lies before the home girl is that she may slip almost unconsciously into selfishness. Mother tells her not to do this. Mother shields her from that. Mother shoulders this task. And before the home girl knows it, she is letting mother do all the hard work of the home, and she herself is sitting in idleness and ease, and enjoying all that is laid before her.

Another danger of the home girl is the dawdling habit. She doesn't have to be on time, or to do anything within a prescribed time, and so she dawdles. She fools around. She plays the piano a little while in the morning, while her room is waiting to be put in order, or the dishes to be washed. She thinks she will do a little sewing after awhile, but there is no real hurry; and so the time slips by, and the day is gone, and she hasn't begun it. If she isn't careful, she gets into the habit of never accomplishing anything.

If she is not on her guard, she will get the shopping habit, and spend hours down town drifting through the shops to no purpose whatever, except collecting samples, trying on hats, and otherwise making herself a nuisance to the salespeople. Or she will get the gossiping habit, and waste hours, hanging over the back fence, or standing on the porch talking chit-chat with the neighbors.

There are many such pitfalls as these in wait for the home girl. And she often unconsciously falls into them, not realizing their effect upon her character until the damage is done. For they do spoil character. The girl who does these things becomes a useless, purposeless being, whose life amounts to little. And thus she misses much of the purest joy of living. For life is given us to develop and build a beautiful character, and in doing this, we bring to ourselves joy. For joy and good go hand in hand, and the more of good we build into our character, the more of joy we bring into our life. So that the girl who has the privilege of living her life at home should carefully avoid these dangers that lurk in the very love and liberty of the home atmosphere, and go forward to a life of usefulness and purpose that will be a force for good in her home and community.

Foods fried in Crisco absorb less grease

Foods fried in Crisco are deliciously crisp and dry.

Crisco fries at such a high temperature that the foods do not soak up grease. They have a golden brown crust and are dry inside.

When you use Crisco for frying, the improvement is perfectly plain. You can see the difference at once.

Order a package and use it for frying one food after another. Every person is impressed by this "dry" frying.

So little Crisco is absorbed in frying, that many people say: "You seem to have as much left when you finish, as you started with."

What Do the Poor Little Birds Do In Winter.

He Fed the Birds on the Tree Stump

THE evening was chilly, and Jack and Evelyn shivered as they pat-tered over the polished floor in their bare feet.

"Just think how cold it must be for the wood folk when you are so chilly in your nice warm home," said daddy.

"But the wood folk have nice warm homes, too, don't they, daddy?" objected Evelyn. "You told us that the squirrels had homes in the hollow trees and that the little chipmunks went to sleep in their holes which they tunnel out under the ground."

"Yes," spoke up Jack, "and you said that most of the birds flew to warmer places when the winter came."

"So I did," agreed daddy. "I'm glad you children remember so well what I say."

"However, all birds do not go away, and as we often have snow and ice here in the winter I have no doubt you will wonder how some of the little birds keep warm."

"Some robins stop with us all winter. They stay in thick evergreen trees. The chickadees, the snowbirds and the sparrows that are with us all winter also have snug places in which they can hide when the winter storm blows. When the snow is on the ground, though, it is hard for them to find anything to eat. The boy or girl who loves birds should never forget his feathered friends at such times."

"I knew a little boy who put up on the lawn a number of cozy little houses high up out of reach of cats and where any birds who wished could make their homes. There was a big tree stump on the lawn, and here every day in winter he left food. He gave the birds breadcrumbs, scraps from the table, must anything that he could get. Sometimes as a treat he put out a handful of cracked nuts or a cluster of the wild grapes that he had gathered and dried in the fall. A pint of grain was sometimes added, and the birds seemed to find this quite a treat. So many birds flocked to the tree that when the snow was on the ground he sometimes would go out and sweep a place bare of snow and scatter the food on the ground so that more birds could eat at once."

"You know in the winter all the insects on which the birds feed are dead or hidden away out of sight. The berries and seeds still clinging to bushes are often covered with snow and ice. It is then that the poor little birds must go hungry unless some kind friend provides them with food. Many little birds starve to death in weather of this sort."

"We will feed the birds around here, daddy," said Evelyn. "I shall not forget them this winter. I would not want the little things to starve."

"And I'll put up some houses, so they need not be cold," said Jack.

WHY I LOST MY JOB

Reasons Why Thousands Like Me Cannot Satisfy Their Employers.

I believe my fate is not unlike that of thousands of other workers who daily lose their places for reasons they do not know, and probably would not believe. When their last pay envelope comes along, it is usually, "Your services are no longer required." If the truth were known the reason for their unceremonious removal would probably be that their usefulness was destroyed because of some mental worry, bodily ailment or general indisposition. These things, as we all know, are the most fruitful causes of failure in all walks of life. The battle of Waterloo was lost because of a headache. In this quick age our minds must be clear, rapid, active and free from outside influence or worry, or else we go down to failure with the throng of "floaters" who go from one place of employment to another, giving no satisfaction to others or to themselves, constantly growing older and less useful, with no ambition, no will power, and no hope.

Every man requires from every other man the best that is in him. But no man can use or get the best that is in himself until he is first free from all fretful indispositions and worries.

That was my trouble. I was full of troubles. That's why I lost my job. My stomach in the first place was always out of order, and I was worrying about it, and my mind grew cloudy and slow. I made mistakes, and grew grouchy. That was the end.

There are thousands like me, going about with quick lunch faces, dyspeptic manners, and repulsive atmospheres. No employer wants such men's services.

Take my advice. A healthy stomach is half the battle, for it keeps your mind clear and your face rosy. I have a healthy stomach now and hold a good position, and my employer is satisfied and so am I.

I started to take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which I was told were good for the worst cases of indigestion and dyspepsia. The first two tablets made a wonderful difference in my condition.

One ingredient of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digests 3000 grains of food. The stomach doesn't have to work at all. The Tablets do all the work, no matter how heavy your meal.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure brash, eruptions, burning sensations, bloar, irritations, loss of appetite, nausea, heartburn, lack of energy, loss of memory and dyspepsia, and indigestion in their very worst forms.

No other little tablets in the world can do so much. You should carry them around with you wherever you go and take them regularly after meals. Then you will realize what it is to be free from stomach torment and have a clear mind, a quick memory, a happy disposition, comfort and rest. Get Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store for 50c. a box.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package, free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

Carried a Horseshoe.

D. W. Barn, who has no particular place of residence, is today a firm believer in the horseshoe as an emblem of luck. Barn was arrested Tuesday night by Officer Moore on a charge of being disorderly. When searched at the city prison the only thing found on his person was a well worn horseshoe. When his case was called in police court the charge was dismissed and he was ordered to get out of town. He took his horseshoe and left the police station hurriedly.

New Daughter Arrives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mellick announce the birth of a little daughter which came to bless their home last Saturday. "Billy" is stepping high around the Central fire department, and says the little miss is just as cute as can be and that the neighbors say she looks exactly like her daddy fire fighter. The latter is kept busy looking up the good points of numerous push carts and baby buggies, which he is anxiously examining. The many friends of the popular young couple extend congratulations over the new arrival.

When some men marry they take the fatal plunge. Others merely put their foot in it.

Many a man has an idea he can't make his mark without making a mark of some other fellow.

Modern business demonstrates that a profit is frequently without honor.

Children from 14 to 16 years.

"Authorities agree that almost all of the children who enter the industries enter at the age of 11. The working people of the country who wish their children to enter the industries take them out of school at 11, knowing from experience that if they stay in school until 16 they will have passed the psychological time when industry beckons; will have acquired other tastes, and will never enter the industries. The American-born mechanic, then, is the boy who entered the shop at 11, grown up. Therefore as good citizens, and as employers, it is for us to give especial consideration to the educational problem as it concerns children of 11 to 16."

That the art of aviation is not entirely devoid of the financial element is shown in an article under the above heading, by Edward Hungerford which appears in the current issue of Harper's Weekly. But was betide the manager of any meet who even hints at the word "extortionate." "Aviators in this stage of the new science are more high-strung than opera singers, and even the suspicion of criticism is enough to make one of these stars turn his back upon a manager, who to be most successful must act the role of supplicant. "Extortionate!" Just hint at that and your well trained aviator will turn around and quickly name the tremendous death roll of last year, and then ask you if any price is "extortionate" for a man to demand when he takes his life in his hands."

MR. A. A. STASEL MAKES REPLY TO PROF. JOHNSON

Prof. W. H. Johnson:

It is hard to tell whether your letter of Oct. 30th, headed an open letter to Mr. Stasel, and directed to the voters of Licking county, was intended to be answered by me, or contained merely a statement of your own position. Every one knows you stand for prohibition, whether or not prohibition is practical.

Licking county for three years has been prohibition territory under the law. The law is made a mockery for these three years. People love respect for all law when it is possible to violate some law with comparative impunity. It is wrong and unfortunate that law should not attract the respect of the people, it is not their obedience. But in the language of Grover Cleveland, it is a condition and not a theory that confronts us.

If our theories would always bring the results that our logic indicates this would be a glorious old world (for us).

Plato 2500 years ago planned an ideal republic (with which you are no doubt familiar)—Plato is still a dreamer.

There is doubtless a kind of gratification in dreaming of ideal conditions, but you will find these have no place in the jurisprudence of a state.

The acceptance of this truth (is first and foremost to your qualifying as a law maker).

It is commendable in you saying that you stand for the forces that build up the state—but don't be a Pharisee. Flatter not yourself that the sociological world must traverse the orbit marked by any one man's mind. We have been traveling a long time and we are not lost yet.

What you say concerning the law only illustrates further the statement that this provision of the Constitution is a "stumbling block."

It has been a stumbling block not only to legislatures in the enactment of laws regulating the liquor traffic, but also to the "dry" cause itself, which being strenuously opposed to a license, has twice enacted a license law which the supreme court declared unconstitutional, and when the supreme court say they are a license they are, whether you think so or not.

This constitutional provision has been a stumbling block to the supreme court. The Dow law was declared unconstitutional by a divided house, Johnson, judge, dissenting. The modified Dow law was declared constitutional by a divided court, Oakley, judge, dissenting—he was the judge who delivered the opinion of the court in the first Dow law case.

The Dow law was twice before the supreme court in 1887, and both times declared constitutional by the court and each time by a divided court—Owen, C. J., and Follett dissenting.

In the case in 46—O.S.—607, the court do not hold that the legislature under this constitution can pass a law forbidding the traffic in liquors in this state. The court say they can see no reason why laws so stringent could not be passed as would amount in their effect to a prohibition of the traffic.

Many people know that the decisions of the supreme court on these liquor cases were thought at the time to be influenced by politics, and the personnel of the judges passing judgment for and against will lend weight to that claim. The Democrats, being liberal constructionists, held them unconstitutional, and the Republicans, being strict constructionists, held them constitutional. Now the point is this—The constitution should be plain and clearly written; any provision which has been subject for 60 years to a difference of opinion among the people, the legislature and the courts should not remain in the constitution—a stumbling block to future generations.

The present situation of the liquor traffic in Ohio is the legitimate outgrowth of the present constitution—are you satisfied with it? Or is it advisable to retain this present provision because it does in your opinion give the legislature power to prohibit the traffic. This is doubtful grounds. To regulate this traffic does not mean to prohibit the traffic, as Judge Thurman says, yet you may make the regulation so onerous as to amount to prohibition. So you are still on dangerous ground.

Of one thing you can be certain, prohibition will come only with a vote of the people on the subject, open and above board. If people are to respect the law they should be consulted about it. All law in this country rests upon the consent of the people.

By the irresistible logic of your analysis, you prove me to be in favor of a license.

If this were true, it would be no worse in me than it was in the "drys" when they procured the passage of the Scott law and the Dow law.

You are using this word as a red flag. The fact is, upon principle and policy I am opposed to permitting anyone to engage in an unlawful business. To declare a business unlawful and then for a consideration paid to the state to permit anyone to follow that business, seems to me unjustifiable.

If we are to have traffic in this business, and there is no question about it in Licking county, let us make it a legal traffic—protect, restrain and regulate it by law—collect a revenue from the business and have it contribute its just proportion of the expense of government which it entails.

As I said before, I am opposed to the new constitution having any provision of license or no license of the liquor traffic, but leave the legislature free and unrestricted in passing laws that will regulate the traffic in such a way as will make the evils of that traffic the least.

A. A. STASEL.

Newark, O., Nov. 1, 1911.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

Genuine Merit Required to Win the People's Confidence.

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been cured, to those who are in need of it.

In an interview on the subject a prominent local druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows immediate results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy that I know of has so large a sale."

The success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root is due to the fact that it fills every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder diseases, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism. A free trial bottle will be sent by mail absolutely free. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention this paper. Regular size bottles sold at all druggists—50c and $1.00.

CLAIMS HE WAS VICTIM OF ASSAULT

C. H. Hamer of Hancock street, has reported to the police that he was the victim of a cowardly assault near his home Monday night. He stated that he was returning from lodge and alighted from a street car at Williams and Hancock street. As he approached his home near the corner he noticed two men standing in the shadows of two telephone poles. As he passed them, one of the men struck him on the back of the head with some sharp instrument. An ugly scalp wound was inflicted but he was not rendered unconscious.

Mr. Hamer states that he recognized one of his assailants and has a pretty good idea as to the identity of the other and states that he will cause their arrest.

The victim of the assault is an employee of the Wehrle company and was one of the men who refused to join the striking mounters when they walked out several weeks ago.

DR. H. H. POSTLE OPENS OFFICE IN THIS CITY

Newark's professional circles have just been augmented by the addition of Dr. Harry H. Postle, who for some years has been practicing his profession at Black Hand, a short distance east of Newark, on the B. & O. railroad. The doctor has moved his family, consisting of his wife and one small son, to Newark, and is now comfortably located at No. 20 East Church street. Dr. Postle is a graduate of Ohio Sturling Medical College and also did a great deal of post graduate work in Chicago and Baltimore. He has been engaged in the active practice of his profession for 12 years and during that time has held the position of surgeon for the B. & O. R. R. Co. and also for the Ohio Electric Railway Co. He is well and favorably known in Newark and has many friends here who will be glad to learn that he is to become a resident of this city.

CELEBRATION OF HALLOWE'EN OVER THE CITY

Very Few Depredations Reported and Patrolmen Had But Little Trouble During the Evening.

Probably the quietest Halloween Newark has ever known was that of last night. According to the report sheet at police headquarters, the celebration of this fall festival evening was attended by no serious disorder or property damage and the majority of the celebrants were children not yet in their teens. Their "disorders" consisted chiefly of throwing corn, cabbage and fallen leaves and soaping windows.

This morning an old buggy was found in the bed of the South Park near German street. It had been rolled down the embankment by South End children.

Another buggy was pushed into the canal at Sixth street, but was unharmed. A barber's sign was removed from in front of his shop in Union street and set in front of another business house.

Numerous other stunts like the above named were pulled off in various parts of town but no serious damage was reported.

At police headquarters the usual complaints were received, but the headquarters men got the particulars of each report before detailing an officer to investigate. As a result the complaints on which officers were detailed numbered but nine for the entire evening.

As usual the grouchy man and woman, who forgot last night that they were once young, were the most frequent "kickers." In dozens of cases the only complaint was that the children were soaping the windows, throwing corn or making a noise. These reports were not investigated.

One woman in the north end reported that a crowd of children had their faces blackened and were calling the neighbors to their doors. This seemed to be the worst thing the kids were guilty of and the woman grew indignant when the department refused to send an officer to arrest the fan-makers.

Every officer in the department was on duty even Chief of Police Hinkel taking a beat on Hudson avenue. The shortage of city funds prevented the department from putting on extra men. In speaking of his experience on Hudson avenue, Chief Hinkel said he has as much fun as the kids. One kid who was caught in the act of doing some awful stunt such as throwing corn or using a piece of soap, almost went into convulsions when the chief faced him. He soon made a getaway, however, without waiting to hear the chief say that he was in no danger of arrest.

Another crowd was about to overturn a shed when the chief appeared around the corner of the building. The crowd started on the run and was soon lost in the darkness.

Several fences in the north end of town and the usual number of gates were removed, rugs taken from porches and hitching stakes removed.

Most of the young people turned their attentions to social events and there were many Halloween parties given in various parts of the city.

Championship baseball pictures at the Grand tonight.
